Hoe, Heaven, and Hell: My Boyhood in Rural New Mexico by Nasario García

Description: As a boy in Ojo del Padre, a village in the Rio Puerco Valley northwest of Albuquerque, García grew up the way rural New Mexicans had for generations. His parents built their own adobe house, raised their own food, and brought up their children to respect the old ways. In this memoir, García reveals an unforgettable account of New Mexico history and culture.

MARY DONOHO: New First Lady on the Santa Fe Trail by Marian Meyer

Description: Mary Donoho was the first woman to survive the rugged and grueling crossing of the Santa Fe Trail in 1833. Donoho, "the new first lady of the Santa Fe Trail" was a woman of uncommon substance who lived in Santa Fe until the 1837 Perez Rebellion and then moved with her husband to Clarksville, Texas. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Donoho ran the 'legendary' Donoho Hotel in Clarksville, Texas, and raised her six children. Her life lives up to the image of the undaunted pioneer woman of the past.

Amos The Philosophical Mouse: another view from under the pew by Gary Mitchell

Description: Living under a church pew can give you an interesting – and enlightened – view of Christianity – just as long as it doesn't resemble what Amos calls "church-ianity." When your house is beneath a church pew, you must retain a certain amount of wit to get by. Amos the philosopher has it, as well as an intelligent, Christian perspective on a world filled with dark corners, trap-door spiders, and lurking alley cats.
