Henrietta Schmerler and the Murder That Put Anthropology on Trial by Gil Schmerler

Description: In July, 1931, Henrietta Schmerler, a promising Columbia anthropology student, was raped and murdered on the White Mountain Apache Reservation in Arizona. The story of her tragic adventure was told primarily through the years by self-interested anthropologists and sensationalizing writers. Decades later, a niece and nephew pieced together a more accurate version through careful examination of letters and fieldnotes, painstaking archival research, and suing the FBI. This is that story.

My Real Hue by Daniel Yves Eisner

The events leading up to being liberated from a highly dysfunctional family led by Holocaust survivors. This memoir is just as much about the painful process of becoming estranged from one's family as it is about what the Holocaust did to someone who was forced to leave her motherland. In the end, the author is freed from his toxic family to live a happy, fulfilling, and loving life.

ALBUQUERQUE'S NORTH VALLEY by Francelle Alexander

For centuries, a strand of settlements was built along the Rio Grande by the ancient Pueblo peoples, many of which disappeared before and during the Pueblo Revolt in 1680. In the 1700s, when the Spanish returned, they built villages along the Rio Grande, not only what is now Old Town but many others.

Basic Genealogy Checklist by Henrietta Christmas & Paul Rhett

Description: Today, genealogy ranks second as a hobby only to gardening as the most searched topic online. According to recent market research, an estimated 100 million people spend over a $1,000 a year in search of their ancestors. Many of these family historians use online genealogy services to pursue their quest. This group of "pajama" genealogists is projected to grow by almost 40 percent in the next ten years. Seeking one's family history is exciting to people of all types, no matter whether they be experienced professional genealogists or just starting the adventure.

The Fly Fisherman's Bucket List by Slim Randles

Description: Welcome to the Great Fly Fishing Race! With this book, you see, it's really a race to see how many of these hundred-plus top places to catch fish in America before you starve to death, because you're having fun instead of working. The fly fishing experts in each state steer you to their own hotspots, tell you when to fish and which flies work best. The rest is up to you. And remember, it isn't nice to drown worms! Take this trip with a true-outdoors person: Randles has packed mules in the High Sierra, competed as a roper and bulldogger in rodeo, guided hunters in Alaska and New Mexico, and drove a team in the first Iditarod Dogsled Race. Join him for some real fun!
